November 2023 - Post No.46

Well maybe I should not have mentioned that last month was unusually sunny as November has definitely been VERY soggy! As I have told you before I am also not a huge fan of November as I do not enjoy all of the fireworks but I know lots of humans do so I try to just snuggle up and ignore them - but I must confess, I do hope they are gone again until at least next year. One of the things I do love about Autumn time is all the fallen leaves, here I am enjoying sniffing them all on one of my walks!

I must tell you that at the beginning of this month I had an unexpected break away to the seaside again. To be honest it was all a little bit strange as one minute I was snuggled up in Miss Redman's office and then the next she took a phone call and within a very short space of time my Aunty Blue came to pick me up and take me to her house in Hove. Of course I didn't mind as she spoils me rotten, but usually I visit with Miss Redman and to this day I can't be sure why I went... it may have been something to do with an inspector or three... who knows but most importantly I'm home and back at Westfields now!

The darker evenings are not my favourite as in order to stay safe on my walks, Miss Redman makes me wear this funny necklace. She tells me it is just the same as what the children learned all about in Road Safety Week but it doesn't stop me feeling a little silly... but safety first!

Throughout November I have enjoyed lots of activities across our schools. From Class Assemblies and inspiring Art Club activities to an Open Session, I have kept myself busy. In order to not show any favouritism, I have also attended the Parents Evenings at the Juniors which is always a highlight as I get SO much attention although I did sleep through rather a lot of it this time. And another highlight to make sure Miss Redman is not over worked I have read some of the children's work to help her give out Headteacher Awards. I have to also mention other special events such as attending a School Council Meeting and of course hearing both our WIS and WJS Choirs singing at Yateley Christmas Market!

As I mentioned before, I do enjoy having my photograph taken and as you can see from this official shot, I am rather photogenic! I hope you liked the photographs of your little people that were taken by Frasers too?!

I am sure December is going to be equally busy if not more so with all the festive fun but I will be sure to update you as always!

Love,

Dexter
