

Our School Dog... Dexter's News!

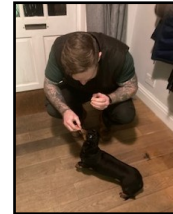

March 2025 - Post No.62

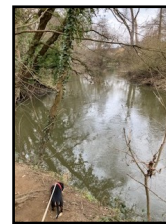

As I predicted, March has been marvellous! I have absolutely loved soaking up the springtime sunshine and exploring all the signs of the season. Of course I have been committed to my school work. Highlights have included Class Assemblies and I absolutely must share that for one of these, I even received my very own thank you card from a pupil who was feeling a little nervous but by looking at me they felt more confident! I'm so happy to be of service and I really loved listening to all of the children share their learning across both of our schools! In addition to this I had a lovely time walking on my lead around the Reception Playground with the children, I have also joined in with World Book Day fun, walked on our field with my buddies and attended some musical performances.

At home I have been introduced to a new dog walker... I am sure I have shared before that Holly is the lady who looks after me and takes me on adventures on days when I'm not in school (which I absolutely love!) Excitingly for her, she is also training as a firefighter so she needs some help with her four legged friends sometimes. As a result of this, I met Mark... he came to my house for me to check that I liked him before I went out on a walk with him (I am very special after all!). Here we are making friends... I really like him, he gives great cuddles and perhaps most importantly yummy homemade treats too!

On the subject of friends I wanted to share this rather cute snap of me hanging out with my new friend Jemima Puddleduck. She arrived in school with her four siblings in very strange modes of transport (I think they're called eggs!) which broke and out they popped—we have all made friends, I thought she smelt lovely. Sadly Jemima and her brothers and sisters can't stay in school so they have gone to live with Mrs Green (the one with purple hair not the one in the School Office!)

There are only a few more school days until the Easter break and I must confess I am a little tired after such a jam-packed term of events. I will definitely be taking the opportunity to relax and recover ahead of what I know is going to be such an exciting final term of this year. Time is definitely flying by but I am having so much fun! Be good and don't eat too many Easter eggs—I definitely won't!

Love,

Dexter
