

Our School Dog... Dexter's News!

October 2024 - Post No.57

The end of October and first half term is here already! I can't believe how quickly time has flown by.... Autumn is most certainly here as you can see from this rather dashing photograph of me posing amongst the autumnal leaves that Mr Long and Mr Lindstrom seem to be constantly collecting up!

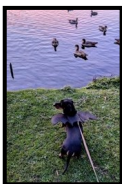

To be honest, October has made my heart sing by spreading a little compassion and consideration at our Harvest Festivals.

Across both schools the staff and children made generous donations to our local food bank—as you can see I was put in charge of quality control... and if I do say so myself, I did a fabulous job! Harvest also gave us the opportunity to come together to think about how fortunate we are at this special time of year and I loved the singing, dancing and poetry that the children shared.

Similarly at Juniors, I joined in the physical fun at the Charity Fun Run! Here I am in Reception just before the big event and again in action completing the sponsored event to fundraise for a very worthy charity, Breakthrough T1D. The children (and staff!) were fabulous and I am so proud of them all!

Beyond school of course I have been out and about and I do particularly love a stroll by any body of water - I am always intrigued by the ducks so on this occasion, I tried out my own wings to see if I could fly—unfortunately, despite my efforts... I can't... but I may keep trying as I do look smart with them don't you think?!

Enjoy the rest of your half term break and I'll look forward to seeing you in November!

Love,

Dexter
